

Remote Assistance for Usage and Welding

Aims

- Resolve your welding problems
- Improve the quality and productivity of your welds
- Develop new parameters for a new application
- Evaluate and interpret weld defects
- Help you to master / discover the capabilities of your installation
- Advise you about the installation and industrialisation of your machines in order to increase your machine usage rate
- Evaluate the operating feasibility of your applications (trials)

Targeted at

Welding technicians / engineers or operators who have to implement an automated orbital TIG welding installation

Includes

- Telephone assistance
- Remote assistance via the internet. Possibility of access to the power source in order to intervene directly in the welding programme

